

Lt. Col. William L. Cosby ,Commander,
Major James Jabara, Captain John B.
Lake.

THE FIGHTING EAGLES . . . The mission of the 334th Fighter Interceptor Squadron is to maintain air superiority by interception and destruction of enemy aircraft; to provide escort or cover for United Nations air, sea, or ground forces, and finally to provide air defense. As the original Eagle Squadron that flew Spitfires in 1942 and 1943 with the RAF, the 334th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, now a member of the famous trio of fighting squadrons, has built a record of aerial combat that will stand immortal on the pages of history.
